#11 – Regulation & Legislation

Businesses understand the reason behind regulations that protect employee's health and well being, or minimise the environmental impact of some industrial and commercial processes.

Despite what the government keeps saying, businesses are being bogged down with red tape and it does not seem to accept the cumulative burden that is being imposed on you. The government needs to recognise that while some regulations may make society better a thriving business community creating employment, wealth and opportunity and driving regional economic development also makes for a better society.

Many organisations say that they will help businesses tackle all of the red tape, but little actually gets done apart from more surveys and a lot of hot air.

“CB4B believe businesses should and can make a difference”

We welcome the setting up earlier this year of risk and regulation advisory council which has been founded on the belief that “policy making would benefit from a fuller and more rounded consideration of public risk”.

We have built up a relationship with the Better Regulation Executive who say that they want to hear the concerns of your business and all businesses around Cumbria. CB4B can be your conduit. What they need however, is positive proof and concrete examples. By working with you we can make a case on your behalf. We are not talking about generalities but about actual hard examples where red tape has cost your business loss of money, lost you orders or lost you staff.

We also provide, at very reasonable prices, a service to keep you up to date on new regulations and legislation. CB4B will keep you informed in a language you understand!
